Propose New U.S. Health Insurance Plan

President's Commission Airs Findings

Compromise Plan Proposes States Match U. S. Funds

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's commission on the health needs of the nation came up today with a middle-ground proposal for solving one of the country's hottest issues—how to pay the doctor's bill.

The commission proposed 1 1/2 billion dollar annual outlay of federal and state funds to bolster voluntary insurance plans covering the costs of hospital and medical care for all the nation's people lacking full ability to pay.

The program would be administered chiefly by the states, which would match federal money dollar-for-dollar.

It differs both from a plan unsuccessfully espoused by President Truman and a rival proposal of the American Medical Association.

In Chicago, the president of the AMA termed one aspect of the report "compulsory health insurance."

Dr. Louis H. Bauer, of Hempstead, N. Y., said a major recommendation in the report provides that "the federal government, through payroll deductions, would pay directly for the medical care of a large segment of the population. This is compulsory health insurance."

The AMA said it would withhold comment on the full report pending "careful study" by a four-man committee.

President Truman, since 1945, has valiantly pluggd for a federal system of prepaid sickness insurance for wage-earning Americans and their families — to be financed by a compulsory tax on employees and employers, along the lines of the social security system.

AMA Opposed

The AMA has termed Truman's proposal "socialized medicine" and has campaigned for the extension of "voluntary" insurance plans—that is, plans which a person can purchase if he wishes. The AMA however, has never taken a stand as to whether it favored federal subsidy of such plans.

Board of Trade Holiday Hours

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Board of Trade will close at 1 p. m., eastern standard time on Dec. 24 and Dec. 31 instead of the usual 2:15 time. It was stated today. The usual Friday sessions will take place on Dec. 26 and Jan. 2, the board added.

Renève Plevin, French defense minister, said the reduced figure was agreed upon by the NATO Council today, after a four-day debate. The money voted will provide enough to begin work on airports and other long term projects as soon as weather permits.

Decision on the final figure was taken a few hours before the projected conclusion of the meeting, called to get the 14 member nations to vote all the money they could afford without going broke.

Field Marshal Viscount Alexander of Britain, meanwhile, announced that "in time of war" Adthe homes for counsel, problems would soon disappear.

In concluding, he asked his audience regarding youth problems. "Who's kidding who about all this? ... nobody but yourselves!" G. W. H.

Goodfellow Toy Repair Near an End

But More Money Needed to Swell Christmas Fund

A major portion of the discarded toys repaired by advanced metals students at the high school will be returned to the fire department for final touches today.

According to Fire Chief Gail Keyser, Santa's firemen helpers are moving into the last stage in the campaign to make sure that the needy youngsters of the community have toys for Christmas.

However, the drive to raise money to meet the needs of Lee county families is far from completion. With only about a week until Christmas, the goal isn't half reached.

As of today, the Goodfellows need $1,270 to reach the anticipated goal of $2,000.

The fund stands today at $730. That amount of money was contributed in 78 donations including those of individuals and organizations.

Goodfellows can make or break the Christmas of countless boys and girls. They can be made to smile or to hold back tears.

There's not a person in Lee county in the toy business who can't find a way to know that he or she did not do everything possible to prevent those tears from falling when a child looks despairingly at a presentless tree on Christmas morning.

The entire list of contributors will be published at the end of this drive. Be sure your name is on it. Many a lad and lass are counting on YOU. Don't feel that your contribution won't be missed because others are donating. Every bit counts NOW. Don't wait ... Santa won't.

ENVOY LEAVES
NEUBERG, Germany (AP) — George Wadsworth, new American ambassador to Czechoslovakia, left here by train today for Prague. Wadsworth, 59, succeeds Ellis Briggs as chief of the U.S. diplomatic mission.

MARKS TOP AVERAGE
F. Campion Ward, dean of the University of Chicago College, and Benjamin Bloom, college examiner, said in their report to the Journal of Higher Education, that 86 per cent of the Chicago graduates scored higher in specialized tests than the average graduates of other colleges in the specialties of physical sciences, literature, general mathematics and effective expression.

Ninety-eight per cent of the Chicago graduates scored above the general average of other colleges in the general subjects of biological sciences, arts, vocabulary and social studies.

LEAVES RAILS
CUMBERLAND, Md. (AP) — The National Limited, fast Baltimore and Ohio passenger express left the tracks at Rowlesburg, W. Va., about 60 miles west of here early today. The railroad said none of the approximately 100 passengers was hurt seriously enough to prevent them from continuing to their destination on a substitute train.

MEET IN SPRING
PARIS (AP) — The NATO Council of Ministers decided today to meet here again next spring. No date was fixed.

Toastmasters Meet With Founder

DR. CHARLES E. SMITH, 638 Brinton av., Dixon, (center) founder of Dixon Toastmasters' club in 1931, was honored last night when members of the club held a meeting at his home. Dr. Smith, a semi-invalid, is 78 and practiced dentistry in Dixon for 49 1/2 years before he retired last year. The Toastmasters' group of local men who meet weekly for formal discussions on a wide range of subjects, is believed to be the oldest group of its kind in Dixon. (Clockwise from Dr. Smith) — members of the club: Dr. Smith, Earl Kennedy, Dr. Smith, Carl Buehner and Henry M. Hey.

Education Innovations Pay Off at Chicago University

CHICAGO — (AP) — A group of Chicago educators who broke several cardinal rules of college training 10 years ago reported today their method is paying off.

The innovation was a reorganization of teaching and curriculum at the College of the University of Chicago in 1942.

Grades "Strikingly High"

The results, reported in the December issue of the Journal of Higher Education, are strikingly high marks achieved by graduates of the University College.

Ninety-nine per cent of University College graduates scored better than the average of all college graduates taking the Graduate Record Examination. This examination is the yardstick most generally used by universities across the country to admit students to graduate and professional studies.

University College, once dubbed "the quiz-kid college," does these unusual things: It accepts students after their sophomore year of high school. It does not permit specialization in subjects, but provides a strict curriculum of 14 year-long courses aimed at providing a broad general education. It relies heavily on the discussion method of teaching, with members of the student body leading the discussions.

The blast, occurring at 4:15 o'clock, hurled fragments of iron within inches of Eugene Origiesen, Nelson, Northwestern switchman, as he stood near the furnace. Another step would have placed him in direct line of the flying metal, Origiesen said.

The explosion caused an estimated $1,000 damages to the boiler and furnace. The boiler, which held about 600 gallons of water, supplied hot water for the yard office.

J. J. McCoy, yardmaster, said cause of the explosion had not been determined.

Negro Lawyer Appointed to State Cabinet

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Joseph D. Bibb of Chicago will head the State Public Safety department in the new Republican state administration—the first Negro to hold a cabinet post in Illinois.

Governor-elect William G. Stratton announced the appointment Wednesday and said he will make three more appointments Friday. Stratton said he still plans to have his cabinet completed by inauguration time Jan. 12.

The safety department which Bibb will head includes prisons, state police and the pardon and parole board.

Bibb, 37, is managing editor of the Pittsburgh Courier's Chicago edition and writes a column for the paper. He is a lawyer and a member of the Chicago Public Library board of directors.

A native of Alabama, Bibb received his early schooling in Atlanta and attended Harvard, Yale and Columbia universities.

Naperville Area Scoured For Children

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Two major efforts remained Thursday to find two small children who disappeared 12 days ago.

Twenty-five policemen from Naperville and surrounding towns undertook a minute inspection of ground and buildings in the immediate neighborhood of the children's homes in the belief that some hiding place may have been overlooked in earlier searching.

Saturday, more than 1,000 volunteers will conduct an organized search of an area within a 10-mile radius of Naperville. The Du Page county Building Trades Council (AFL) has promised that 500 of its members will join in the search. Students from North Central College, Naperville high school and Boy Scouts are expected to participate.

The missing youngsters are Jean Peterson, 6, and Edward Rosenstiel, 3. They dropped from sight Dec. 7 while playing near their Naperville homes.

PIOTTERS JAILED
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Eleven members of the opposition radical party were arrested today in San Luis province in Central Argentina. A police communique said they were plotting an "imminent" revolt against the government of President Peron.

Reds Boast Of Offensive By Yuletide

SEOUL, Friday — (AP) — Allied warplanes smashed a big Red troop massing area near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang Thursday while the Communists boasted they would be in Seoul by Christmas.

Allied planes in waves rained high explosives on the troop concentration area, which sprawls 20 miles south of Pyongyang.

The Communist boast about capturing Seoul came in loud speaker broadcasts along the front. High flying Red planes also made a rate appearance over the front, showering leaflets saying in effect "Yankee, Go Home."

NEW YORK — (AP) — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower cloaked in deep secrecy today the Korean war and world peace views outlined to him by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Aides said Eisenhower was studying ideas MacArthur set forth at their history-making conference Wednesday, but they added that no detailed public account of what was discussed can be expected.

Eisenhower made ready, meanwhile, for a group of Republican leaders in the House of Representatives.

The President-elect said the session is one of a series he will hold with the GOP high command in Congress to chart a legislative program to deal with inflation and other domestic, and foreign problems.

After Wednesday's Eisenhower-MacArthur conference at the Manhattan home of John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, the two five-star generals told newsmen they had discussed the problem of winning peace in Korea and the rest of the world.

The luncheon get-together resulted from a MacArthur speech here Dec. 8. He said then there is "a clear and definite solution to the Korean conflict."

Eisenhower, who had just completed a three-day inspection of a formula, messaged MacArthur from aboard a cruiser in the Pacific that he would like to confer with him. MacArthur promptly accepted.

Fear Ordeal To Be Fatal To Largest

One 'Sacrificed' When Surgeons Run Into Difficulty

CHICAGO — (AP) — One of the Siamese twins separated Wednesday in a history-making operation was "doing badly" today and physicians doubted he would survive.

Dr. Eric Oldberg, head of the department of neurology at the University of Illinois, said surgeons "had to make a choice" during the day-long surgical operation and that Rodney Dea, the smaller of the twins, was given the benefit because he showed the greater chance for ultimate survival.

Single Fusion

Oldberg said surgeons found the twins had only a single fused outer brain covering containing a single sagittal sinus vein that drains blood from the brain back to the heart. Rodney was given this brain covering and the drainage vein.

Oldberg said the chances that Roger Lee would develop collateral circulation were "almost nil," and that "the next few hours will tell the story."

He reported Roger Lee "didn't do well during the operation" and was in shock several times with his condition "precarious."

But he also emphasized that surgeons found it would be more difficult to fuse the brains separately and since over to Roger Lee, Dr. Oldberg said the surgeons "more or less went for one" and took a chance on the other.

Fifteen Survived

"Was this to aid survival of the fittest?" he was asked.

"You might call it that," he replied.

The professor disclosed the twins received a total of six quarts of blood in transfusions during the marathon 12 hour and 40 minute operation to separate the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Royt Brodie of Moline, Ill. The boys are 15 months old.

This amount of blood was equivalent to replacing their total normal amount of blood capacity three times over.

Dr. Oldberg said that actually the bony part of the boys' heads which were joined "like two chimneys" were cut apart Aug. 30. Thereafter the twins were joined only by skin, soft tissue and the outer brain covering called the "dura."

Find Difficulty

The surgeons, he said, first discovered the difficulties they faced in the last major pre-separation operation Nov. 24. On that occasion their heads were "half split apart" and it was found it would be difficult to give each a separate venous drainage from the brain.

Dr. Oldberg said the twins, in their 13 and one-half months stay at the university's hospital, underwent nine brain neuro-surgical operations and four plastic procedures.

In the most recent operations before yesterday's the dura—a paper thin membrane—was split a little farther each time.

In the first month at Illinois Research and Educational hospital, where they were brought 45 days after their birth in Rock Island, Ill., they suffered from frequent colds. X-rays then showed there was no bone at the top of either skull, and the heads were like two chimneys put together, Dr. Oldberg recalled.

"It sure looks good to see them apart," said Brodie as the babies

Under Water TV
NEW YORK—(AP)—Yugoslavia has ordered under-water television equipment from Britain. The British Information Service announced here recently. It is planned to use the equipment for under-water dock and harbor inspection in Adriatic ports. Under-water TV has already been tried out under test conditions in the inspection of ship wrecks. Television equipment of this type will be on display at the British Industries Fair next spring, according to the report.

Search Ends
VINTON, Ia.—(AP)—When Mrs. Albert Ludden reported her 2-year-old daughter Nancy had disappeared, police searched the neighborhood without result. Then the town fire alarm was sounded and volunteer firemen were summoned. They decided to start from scratch at the Ludden home. They found Nancy behind an overstuffed chair where she had fallen asleep.

Under Water TV
NEW YORK—(AP)—Yugoslavia has ordered under-water television equipment from Britain. The British Information Service announced here recently. It is planned to use the equipment for under-water dock and harbor inspection in Adriatic ports. Under-water TV has already been tried out under test conditions in the inspection of ship wrecks. Television equipment of this type will be on display at the British Industries Fair next spring, according to the report.

Search Ends
VINTON, Ia.—(AP)—When Mrs. Albert Ludden reported her 2-year-old daughter Nancy had disappeared, police searched the neighborhood without result. Then the town fire alarm was sounded and volunteer firemen were summoned. They decided to start from scratch at the Ludden home. They found Nancy behind an overstuffed chair where she had fallen asleep.

Voters Reject Truman Belief That Demos Know All Answers

When President Truman took office in 1945 upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he was perhaps one of the most reluctant chief executives of all time. He did not want the job, and he was frankly frightened of its responsibilities. Slowly, however, his fears lessened and his confidence mounted as he became accustomed to his new role. He began to enjoy his position. Nevertheless, in his first term he was a much criticized man and he must have felt keenly the barbs of his attackers.

His surprise election in 1948 swept away the last vestiges of doubt and humility in Mr. Truman. That election should have been no surprise; it was one of the most poorly analyzed in American history. But since it was unforeseen, the president took—and was given—full personal credit for producing the upset.

Thereafter the president was extremely self-assured. He felt vindicated by his popular triumph, felt he had proved his superior talents as a politician.

Mr. Truman generally was pretty happy during his second term. But like virtually all his predecessors, he became concerned with his place in history. He wanted the record of his years to read right.

Thus the scandals in RFC, the internal revenue bureau and elsewhere must have hit him hard. Yet oddly, he could not bring himself to deal with these matters with the bold courage that actually might have enhanced his stature in history.

Dominated by his sense of party loyalty, he chose the more limited course of minimizing the scandal and applying half-way measures to correct it. To him this was the better way to safeguard his position.

When he took to the hustings this fall, he was not so much promoting Governor Stevenson, as he was defending his own record. And an understanding of that fact may go far toward explaining, if not excusing, the violence of the president's attacks upon General Eisenhower and the Republican party.

That same fact, apparently, underlies Mr. Truman's assault upon Eisenhower as having practiced demagoguery in promising to visit Korea if he was elected.

This is not the spot to argue the matter of that campaign promise, though a perfectly good case can be made out that it was not demagogic.

The point is that this attack by the president, as is true also of all his campaign blasts, sounds like "I and my party can do no wrong." He says in effect that he and his administration have considered every conceivable answer to the country's problems. How dare any man or party suggest otherwise?

In every new idea that does not originate within his government group, Mr. Truman sees not hope for the nation but a reflection upon the performance and judgment of his own administration. Automatically, this is "demagoguery." But on November 4 the people of America indicated they hold a somewhat different view.

RUTH MILLETT

Wives Beginning to Doubt Hold-Your-Man Technique

Judging from my mail there is a minor revolution going on in the minds of American women.

You men may not have sensed it yet, but things are going to be different. Women, who, for the past few years have been fed a steady diet of how to hold their men, are getting fed up with trying.

They are beginning to wonder: "What do I get out of this? Why isn't it just as important for him to try to hang onto me? Is he such a wonderful bargain that I must spend my life trying to please him? To flatter his ego, to wage an endless battle against weight and wrinkles and graying hair so that he will always find me glamorous?"

Sure enough, letters voicing those sentiments started coming in a year or two ago and there are more of them all the time.

So you can watch for a change around your house. It's bound to come sooner or later. And it may be later than you think.

WOMEN TAKE UP NEW TRENDS QUICKLY

Women are suckers when it comes to falling for new ideas. They ate up the "how to hold your man" advice for years and knocked themselves out trying to follow it.

But women are also practical and they've had time enough now to start wondering if they haven't been suckers for falling for all that advice.

They can't see it paying off in very big dividends. They have come to the sad conclusion that the harder they try to please a man the harder he is to please. And they've taken a good long look at the men and noticed that it's only the women who have been agoniz-

In Hollywood

By
FRANK JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The Women: A movie cutie who hails from merry old England is confessing that she's about to become the first British actress in Hollywood to deliberately comb the beefsteak pie and Yorkshire pudding out of her voice.

Until now most London imports have rushed back to the Old Vic in a huff at the suggestion that they shelve the Stratford-on-Avon tones. But not pretty Dawn Addams, who plays Priscilla in MGM's "The Plymouth Adventure." Says Dawn:

"I don't think England will turn against me for trying to overcome my accent. Hollywood isn't making as many pictures calling for British backgrounds and casts. Actors from France and Italy work to overcome their accents. What's wrong with a British actress trying it?"

Worried not at all about the London press barbequing her if she's caught with a trace of Ohio, Kansas or Alabama in her voice, Dawn says:

"Really, I'd like to be able to talk like Judy Holliday and Jean Arthur if the parts call for it. I'm trying to get an American voice—and my career will be the better for it."

ROLLS AND TOSSES

It's going to be a blow to male moviegoers who watched her rolling gait in "Ten Tall Men" and "Wild and Joe Back Up Front," but U-I is putting the kibosh on Marl Blanchard's super-sexy body movements in "The Prince of Baghdad."

Marl, possessor of the swiftest switchback walk since Mae West undulated before the cameras, is being slowed down to a few rolls and tosses in the film that's launching her as the No. 1 glamor girl on the lot.

"And it's tough for me to hold back," she said. "I have to stiffen up before I take a step. I just naturally walk that way. It's perfect posture and it's not deliberate. I don't swing my hips. That's vulgar. I lead with my shoulders and the walk just happens."

Meet Hollywood's Star for a Day
—Angela Clarke.

Handsome Angela of the classic features was unknown to moviegoers and even to most Hollywood stars until Warners looked at her performance in "The Miracle of Fatima" and gave her five-pointed billing with Gilbert Roland.

But now she's back playing small featured roles "and I don't care if I ever get star billing again," she told me on the set of "Jamaica Seas."

NEARER TO HOME

Other movie queens can scream for time off to gad about in Europe or float in their swimming pools—Barbara Stanwyck's shipping the vacations. Now working in "Near My God to Thee," Barbara has more films to do in 1953 than Marilyn Monroe has calls to tell her true life story to the fan magazines.

"I kept okaying stories, they were so good, and I didn't realize what I was getting into," Barbara wailed. "I suppose I'm greedy. Not for money, but for acting. I hate to give up a good picture. I'm stage struck, anyhow. I get restless when I'm not working."

Billie Burke hasn't found a movie buyer for her life story, "With a Feather on My Nose," but she's discovered the one Hollywood actress who fills the bill as her perfect counterpart.

She's MGM's Debbie Reynolds who, says Billie, "is perfect. She certainly reminds me of me. I'd like that little thing to play me on the screen."

Billie's leaving no stone unturned in trying to find the right studio and producer for her biography.

Marie Windsor's shooting at the forever-blond goal.

Not because gentlemen prefer 'em, but because with tresses the color of corn silk she can play dolls who haven't thoughts of murder or blackmail.

"I want to play a few nice women for a change," the tall beauty, now a brunette, waited on the set of "Trouble Along the Way." "But every time a good heavy role comes along, it's 'Windsor, dye your hair black and get to work.'"

Property Returned

YOKOHAMA — The U. S. Army announced recently it has returned to Japanese ownership more than 4,900 major buildings and nearly a half-billion square feet of land in Japan since Oct. 15, 1951.

A Far East Command announcement said the buildings included the Dai Ichi Building, which formerly housed general headquarters; the Imperial Hotel in Tokyo; the New Grand Hotel and the Mitsubishi warehouse in Yokohama; the Nikk Building in Kobe and the Kyoto and Miyako Hotels in Kyoto.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Lead Suggestions Prompt Discussion

When today's slam hand was played, quite a discussion arose about the best opening lead and about how the hand should be played. Declarer had an answer for two of the three suggestions.

West actually opened the six of spades, and declarer very properly put up dummy's ace at once. He then drew three rounds of trumps, and ran all five diamonds. In order to discard the three hearts from dummy. Now he could afford to lead the queen of spades and give up a trick to East's king. Dummy could then win the rest of the tricks with good spades and a trump.

After the hand had been played, West was full of regret over his opening lead. "If I had led the ace of hearts to begin with," he said, "you wouldn't have made the slam."

South thought this over for a moment and then found an answer. "If you take the ace of hearts and then lead a spade," he pointed out, "I can put up the ace of spades, draw trumps, and run the diamonds to discard three spades from the dummy."

"That leaves me in position to ruff one spade in dummy and discard my other spade on the king of hearts." This silenced West for a moment, but he returned to the attack. "How would you play the hand," he demanded, "if I opened a low heart?"

"If you were smart enough to open a low heart away from your ace," South replied modestly, "I'd be smart enough to play the king from the dummy."

Demand for Steel Strong; Expect Boom to Continue

NEW YORK — Orders for steel continue to pile up at the mills to the surprise of some steelmakers.

Industrial spending for plant expansion is reaching new peaks as 1952 ends. And plans of business call for $4 billion more dollars to be spent this way in the first three months of 1953.

Most of the members of the National Tool & Die Manufacturers Association attending its meeting here say they expect their business to continue good for at least two more years.

No Pessimist

General Electric's president, Ralph J. Cordiner, will have no truck with the pessimistic view of the latter half of 1953 expressed by some economists.

"Other companies may be concerned about a recession," he says, "but as far as we can see, we are going to have good business in spite of the economists."

General Electric has put 740 million dollars into new plant and equipment since the war. Cordiner expects the total will top one billion dollars by the end of 1953.

Westinghouse Electric is also going ahead with expansion plans. It has invested 245 million dollars since the war, and plans to spend around 200 million dollars more in the next two years.

Big Expansion

As for business spending in general, a joint report of the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission says that plant expansion will start the new year at an annual rate of nearly 28 billion dollars.

Prayer for TODAY

Eternal God, who are the refuge of all who trust in thee, we rest ourselves in the heat of the day. Steady us in the midst of life's pressures, and enable us to walk uprightly before thee and before our fellows; in Jesus' name. Amen.

RIGHT: Whether or not they are relatives, it is rude to read when you have guests.

Home Wine Made By Old Methods

DULUTH, Minn. — Minnesota's iron range is one of the biggest home wine-making localities in the nation.

More than 100,000 gallons of wine will be produced in the area this year, most of it through methods employed 50 years ago in the United States or 200 years back in the "old country." Grapes are shipped in.

Only change in the time-tested methods is the newer system of smashing grapes. Instead of stomping on them with bare feet, grapes are smashed with a gadget that looks like a clothes wringer.

Anyone who gets a free state permit may make up to 200 gallons of wine in his own home. Many wine-drinking families make the limit.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Pegler Reflects on Some "Not Half-Repulsive Babes" Among Anti-Communist Cabal

(Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The trouble with us anti-Communists when we get together is that we have some not half-repulsive babes in our otherwise dismal cabal who would add much to the sum of joy on earth if they would arch an eyebrow or blab a little baby-talk, but never do.

Finding myself at another of our morbid rejoicings the other day at the Hotel Astor, with Rabbi Benjamin Schultz in the chair and Senator Joe McCarthy about to receive an award, I cast a not too sympathetic eye upon the beauty and chivalry there present and reconsidered the tables and the persons with a calculated, non-political purpose that I wouldn't confide to anyone.

Thus absorbed, like an old print of a prep school junior at a prom, I drew a bead on a tasty little number whom I had met once in an elevator while her husband waited down below and, in cynical disdain of the high intellectual motive, said to my baser nature, "Pegler, cut this one out of the bunch and whip her off to a back table and, anyway, sneak a few peeks. There is no sense denying yourself pleasant thoughts at these broodings and, if your conscience wants to know, it is more indecent to pretend you don't even notice than to break out and bellow, 'Hi! Beautiful, what about giving me a great big autograph?'"

"Ix-nay, Ix-nay!" I said. "You are here to save the world and such sentiments are unworthy of a man of your status and pretensions."

"Just the same," I said, "when the time comes that it don't make any difference whether they are good-looking or they all look like old friends of La Brea, I won't give a dam whether the world gets saved or not. Remind me to consult my theologian, but it is my gut-stomach opinion right now that God didn't make pretty women to be ignored and Pegler you better show a little appreciation of His Handiwork or you can't tell how many demerits it is going to cost you."

I had to concede that I had something there so I pressed the argument.

"Look, Pegler," I said, "the catchism says, 'can look; mustn't make passes.' It doesn't say 'thou shalt not talk anything but resolutions, amendments, and biennial reports when thou art sitting next to a party like this Mrs. Lucille Cardin Crain, of the national committee for something in education or that Mrs. I think Bowman, you poor dummy.' Besides," I said, "all these dull, sorry looking bucks are thinking the same things, so go ahead. Light her cigarette. Tell her you like her hat. Talk about her eyes. Don't talk time. Don't talk about Dubinsky and Lovestones. How do you know she won't kiss if you play it right?"

Well, these are very grisly doings, these morose presentations and this Mrs. Crain didn't shove back her hat and ask for a shock of Old Stepfather, so the initiative was still up to me. Now I found myself back on my own goal, fourth down, ten, when she said I rappin her national committee for something in education one time way back in 1947.

In a situation like that, you don't hit the line, you use strategy, so I said to Ralph Gwinn, a congressman who will never be nicknamed the Laughing Boy, "Did you ever hear what Hutton Sumners said to Isabella Greenway walking across Lafayette Park one moonlight night?"

No, he never.

"Well," I said, "to make a long story short, Isabella was the ten most beautiful women in the world at that time and she was serving a hitch in Congress from Arizona and this night she was strolling home from some gritty committee meeting with Judge Hutton Sumners, the little wry-necked guy from Dallas who was chairman of House judiciary and about as gallus as the Greeley statue, from the look of him.

"So," I said, "to make a long story short, the Bella Isabella, babbled on and on like these babes here about ways and means, fiscal policies, amortization and the like of that until she asked Sumners a question and he didn't answer.

"Judge Sumners," Isabella said, "I asked you a question. Why don't you answer me?"

"Huh?" the little wry-necked guy from Dallas said. "Huh? You said what?"

"Judge Sumners," Isabella said, "you aren't paying attention."

"No'm," the old judge said, "Miss Isabella, I didn't hear a word you said. I just been thinkin' how I'd like to kiss you!"

Well, they didn't quite hammer on the table and start slipping ice water out of their dainty slippers, and nobody had the gumption to finger-snap a garcon and say, "Girls, how's about?" After all, the protocol of world-saving is not that flimsy.

But I began to notice Mrs. Crain sort of arching her neck and tilting her head and Mrs. I think Bowman pulling pretty little moues that were not quite smiles, although that girl has got possibilities. And if fate had minded his own business there is no telling what fun a passel of Red baiters could have had on their own resources.

But, no, Joe McCarthy took the plaque to honor and cherish above all others and, from the force of an old reporter's instinct at the break-up of all standard hard-roll, gold roast and mifcaroon galas I made ten yards in my first bounce and was second in line at the hat-check. I suppose Mrs. Crain's pop was waiting downstairs, as usual. Mr. I think Bowman, too, no doubt.

THE DOCTOR SAYS:

Your Best Course: Limit Boys' Sports Participation

Although fathers frequently think that their sons can and should take part in any and all kinds of competitive sports, the mothers often have their doubts.

The best course to follow is usually to steer somewhere between the over-ambition of most fathers for the athletic prowess of their sons, and the sometimes unreasonable fears of the mothers.

This question of taking part in competitive athletics has not gone wholly unstudied. Suggestions aimed at helping to make participation in such sports safe and healthful were adopted by the National Joint Committee on Standards for Boys' Athletics some time ago and endorsed by other prominent organizations. These points are so important that they are reproduced here:

1. A health examination should be required previous to participation, preferably on a seasonal basis, with annual examination a minimum requirement.
2. A physician should be present at all contests involving activities where the injury hazard is pronounced.
3. A contestant who has been ill or injured should be re-admitted to participation only on the written recommendation of a physician.
4. A contestant upon returning to participation after illness or injury should be carefully observed, and if there is any doubt as to his condition he should immediately be referred to a physician.
5. The coach (faculty member in charge) should be competent in first aid and thoroughly versed in sports conditioning and training. It is also strongly recommended that all players be given basic instruction in first aid.

6. In case of head, neck or spine injury, or suspicion thereof, the player should be removed from play, placed at rest, and be given the immediate attention of a physician.
7. Every school should have a written policy regarding the responsibility for injury incurred in athletics, and this policy should be known to all participants, their parents, and other responsible adults. WASHINGTON 48—Investigating congressmen were told Wednesday that Premier Stalin depends upon intellectuals and not the workers to spark Communist revolution in the Western world.

Igor Bogolepov, an escaped Soviet Foreign Office official and Red Army colonel, said a secret shift in Communist strategy started a campaign which is still under way to capture "the brains of Western intellectuals."

Bogolepov said he helped infiltrate Communists into the American government, educational foundations, the newspapers and other intellectual circles.

The well-groomed Russian testified before a special House committee investigating tax-free educational and philanthropic foundations. The purpose is to determine whether their funds are being used for subversive activities.

The committee recessed open hearings until Monday.

Accuses Marx

Bogolepov testified that in the mid-1930s Stalin made an unpublished speech accusing Karl Marx, the prophet of Communism, of being "completely false" for predicting the workers would start the Western revolution.

Instead, Stalin ordered an offensive among Western intellectuals with the United States and France as main targets, Bogolepov said.

Former Soviet Ambassador Constantin Oumansky started a "snowball among American intellectuals which grew 'greater and greater and greater,'" he added.

Bogolepov said, as a Soviet official, he once was offered a fellowship by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The Soviets contrived to have it given to an agent of the secret police, he added.

Since he broke with the Soviets, Bogolepov testified, three foundations and three universities have refused his requests for aid. He professed belief the refusals were prompted by Communists he helped to infiltrate in these organizations.

Bar Anti-Reds

Communists in foundations and the government, he added, are barring hundreds of anti-Russian intellectuals from entering this country to "help the American people fight communism."

Bogolepov said he came to the United States last April under a one-year visitor's visa to testify before a Senate internal security subcommittee.

make it more difficult to achieve this aim in two regards: (1) tying Yugoslavia closer to the Western European nations, and (2) trying to solve the Italian-Yugoslav dispute over Trieste...

Some officials think there may be difficulties with Congress where the anti-Soviet Communist government of Yugoslavia has been regarded with skepticism by many members.

Tito broke with Russia in mid-1948. Since that time the U. S. has tightened its relations with him and provided substantial military and economic assistance.

During the fiscal year which ended last June 30 the U. S., Britain and France together provided Tito with 120-million dollars. This year their help totals 99 million. In both years the American share has been 78 millions.

Seen As Asset

The Truman administration has regarded Yugoslavia as a great asset: to the West because (1) Tito's 30-odd divisions, though badly in need of modernization, are a valuable addition to anti-Soviet strength.

Efforts to get along with Tito have been marked by frequent difficulties. He has repeatedly made clear he is a doctrinaire Communist with no interest in adopting democratic ways or policies.

atives of the United States and Canada meet here today to form an alliance against the sea lamprey, which is eating vast quantities of fish in the Great Lakes.

The State Department today announced that the aim of the meeting would be to write an agreement for joint action to wipe out the parasite, which lives by attaching itself to a fish and sucking its blood.

"It is estimated," a State Department announcement said, "that some five million lake trout alone have been killed by this parasite since 1949. The sea lamprey is now invading Lake Erie and threatens to destroy lake trout fisheries there."

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need. This involves conducting market research to understand what consumers want and what problems they are facing. Once a need is identified, the next step is to develop a concept that addresses this need. This is often done through brainstorming sessions with a team of designers and engineers. The concept is then refined through prototyping and testing, ensuring that it meets the requirements of the market. Finally, the product is manufactured and distributed to the target audience. Throughout this process, it is important to maintain communication with the market to ensure that the product remains relevant and competitive.

The MATURE PARENT WILL OF A "HOVERING MOTHER" TERRIBLE THING FOR A CHILD

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Peter first discovered that he could torment his mother by sulking when he was seven years old. It was after the tree-climbing episode.

Peter's mother was not the kind who could give a clear, simple order to postpone attempts to conquer the big oak in the garden. She was a hoverer. She shrieked all the time Peter was clambering down from the high bough. When he reached the ground, she rushed at him, stared at him wildly and cried, "Oh, my darling, you nearly killed me! Never again must you climb a tree. I couldn't stand it! You don't want to kill mommy, do you? Then promise..."

The hoverer's will is a terrible thing. It is a steel fist in feminine ruffles. Under its sweet, soft terrible pressure, Peter promised. That night at supper, he wouldn't talk.

"What's wrong?" coaxed his mother. "Don't you like your pudding, dear? Shall I bring you some fruit? Tell mommy what you don't like, dear..."

But Peter wouldn't. He's 35 years old now. He's been divorced three times. He gives his women a hard time. When he's mad, he won't take the responsibility for knowing why. Incapable of honest fight, Peter expresses his displeasures by retreating behind the safe wall of silence. While he looks at you coldly, he likes to see you flutter anxiously at the wall, asking him to tell you what you've done.

Sulking is subversive fighting. If a child has the sulking habit, it is because we have overpowered him so thoroughly that he has learned to resort to guerrilla warfare.

Peter was a male child. It was his nature to climb trees and have adventures—adventures that were denied, not encouraged, because Peter's mother wanted to enslave him to her.

Sh disguised this intention in gushy sweet-talk, so now Peter disguises his intention to defeat others by making them knock themselves out against his wall of silence. He just doesn't know how to fight like a man.

We should not hover over the plate of a child who can feed himself and we should not hover over one who is angry. We should not pursue him with anxious queries about what has been done to make him angry. We should say, "If you're mad, O. K. Figure out why and let me know. Then we can put what's wrong right."

Sulking is the refusal to take responsibility for our feelings. To avoid it, we are told to train children early to know what they feel, why they feel it—and to explain that feeling to others. Those who advise this do not enjoy listening to anger any more than we do. They just know it has to be done if we don't want to produce children like Peter.

Rouge Cheekbones

By ALICIA HART
How many women have you seen with round patches of purplish or orange rouge smack in the middle of their cheeks? Doesn't it cheapen their looks and age them as well?

But in actual fact, properly applied rouge can do more to bring vitality to the face than any other make-up step.

One shade will do for all costumes and lightings. When selecting it, pinch your cheeks to bring up color and try to match this natural flush.

Easy to Apply
Cream or liquid rouge is far easier to work with than dry. Use it immediately after your make-up base. Place a very tiny dab with your finger tip high on your cheekbone. If you can't find your cheekbone by just looking, feel around until you know its contours very well. Blend the rouge out toward the temple but never into the hairline. Blend it down but don't carry it below the cheekbone. Make sure it doesn't go below an imaginary line with the nostrils.

Placed too low, rouge drags down the facial contours, and placed too near the nose it gives a pinched look. Near the eyes it lends them sparkle but should never be placed on an eye wrinkle.

If you wish to accentuate hollows in your cheeks, blend the rouge down into the hollow. If you feel your face is too gaunt, don't let even a touch of rouge enter the hollow.

Even dry rouge is easier to blend if you use it, like cream rouge, before powder. The most important thing is to blend the edges so that no line of demarcation is visible. Dry rouge is best fluffed on with a bit of cotton and dusted to blend. Powder softens the whole effect.

If you have never used rouge before, it will be safest to practice applying it a good deal in a strong light before wearing it in public.

To properly clean your washable window shades, take them down and unroll them on a flat surface. Use a cloth or a sponge wrung out of warm, sudsy water in a circular motion. A damp cloth that has been wrung out of clear, cool water will wipe off the suds. Concentrate on a small section at a time, and make sure you overlap each area. After you have washed both sides of the shade, hang it back up to dry.

Grown-Ups Here Is Christmas Story for You

By DOROTHY ROE

This is a Christmas story for grown-ups who remember the special thrill of a Christmas doll.

For 29 years the person responsible for some of the most resplendent dolls in Santa's annual pack has been a small, bright-eyed woman named Mme. Beatrice Alexander. She never has outgrown her own love for dolls and that may be the reason she is considered tops in her field.

Mme. Alexander can't remember a time when dolls were not an important part of her life. Her parents ran the first doll hospital in New York, and little Beatrice used to like to make dresses for the convalescent dolls. She continued this habit after she grew up, and progressed naturally into the business of manufacturing dolls.

Famous Doll-People

You may remember some of her more famous doll-people. One of the Dionne quintuplet dolls, which followed the progress of the five little sisters each year until they were five years old.

Currently her little women and little men are the prizes of many young doll collectors, as is her Alice in Wonderland, who looks as if she had stepped straight out of a tenniel drawing.

An Open Letter to G.I. Joe

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—An open letter to G. I. Joe in Korea:

Dear Joe,
Well, kid, I thought I would fill you in on the news from your Uncle Sugar Able—the old U. S. A. Everybody is excited about the big reunion and reconciliation of General Ike and General Mac. There has been nothing like it since Stanley met Dr. Livingston in darkest Africa.

General Mac is supposed to have bent General Ike's ear with a new plan to get you out of Korea. The Democrats, taking a tip from Harry S. Truman, are saying, "Well, what is it?" and the Republicans are saying, "Wait and see."

However, nobody has said anything yet about speeding up the rotation system, and if I were you, Joe, I'd go on keeping my feet dry and rifle clean. No matter what plan the generals make, it's the doughboy who has to carry it out.

Everybody here is off on the annual Christmas gift buying jag. It looks like a record year, and even the dogs on Park avenue are wearing mink jackets.

"I never saw such prosperity," a friend of mine told me. "Why, there were 40 people ahead of me at the finance company this morning, waiting for the door to open so they could borrow money to buy Christmas presents."

The way things are, Joe, a fellow can hardly afford not to borrow money. It's the only way you can be sure you still got some credit. And, of course, the Democrats say, "Well, you might as well borrow all you can. When the Republicans get in, there won't be any money or credit either."

The Democrats are still so mad at losing the election it's hard to figure whether they are afraid of a depression under the G. O. P.—or are yearning for one. I guess it is hard on morale to get thrown out of a swivel chair after 20 years.

The government is busy investigating everybody in Washington who can't afford to winter in Florida. The way it seems to work is that they all choose up sides, and say, "You investigate us this week, and we'll investigate you next week."

Another theory is that the Democrats want to get each other all investigated now so that when the Republicans get in power the only ones left to investigate will be themselves.

It looks like the new Congress may go on television, and the gossip is they are holding out for a more appropriate sponsor. I hear the only offer so far was made by a "chlorophyll deodorant."

But, all in all, Joe, it looks like the country will survive. The only fellow I know who doesn't have a job is your Uncle Jim—the one that swore off working back in 1910 during what the Democrats now refer to as "the first Taft administration."

I had lunch recently with your favorite pinup girl, Marilyn Monroe. She said to tell you she sends her best—and believe me, Joe, that is the best, as far as I could see.

Well, kid, keep close to your bunker over there. The thing we'd like best is to have you with the family around our tree this year. That's the Christmas present the nation wants most now—to have you home again. You aren't forgotten.

Good luck,
Hal Boyle.

Seize Three For Attempt At Dope Raid

CHICAGO (U)—Two robbers tried a bold dope raid on St. Luke's hospital early today. But, instead of narcotics, they got vitamin pills and medicine.

A quick-witted nurse protected the narcotic cabinet. Alert, suspicious cops seized two medicine-laden men and a woman as they drove away from the hospital.

Policemen Harold Mahn and John Kiely, seized Horace Foster, 28, Robert Carpenter, 24, and Vivian Walker, 21, a night maid at the hospital. The three held for investigation without charge are Negroes. Kiely said Foster and Carpenter carried pistols.

Nurse Carol Meiner, 21, told police she was on duty in a second floor ward when two gunmen seized her and demanded the key to the narcotic cabinet. Miss Meiner said she surrendered the key to a second cabinet where general medicines are kept.

She said one of the men gulped a handful of headache pills immediately upon opening the cabinet. They then dumped the bottles of pills into a bag and fled.

Kiely said he and his partner stopped the men and questioned them merely because "they seemed in too much of a hurry."

Heavy Snows Hit Europe; Gales Subside

LONDON (U)—Heavy snows in the wake of battering gales covered most of Central and northern Europe today with a Yule-like white blanket but moderating winds allowed two big trans-Atlantic liners to get under way for New York—hours late.

Snow was reported from Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. In France, however, there were threats of floods around the Bordeaux area due to melting snows.

The 53,329-ton liner United States finally pulled out of her berth at Southampton, Eng., more than 20 hours after scheduled sailing time, and the French liner Liberte also left Le Havre, France, 10 hours late. Both had been delayed by English Channel gales, with winds registering up to 80 miles an hour.

The United States, which holds the Atlantic speed record, suffered minor damage to her bridge and observation deck Wednesday when high winds slammed the vessel against the dockside as she was being maneuvered away from her moorings in a vain attempt to get out of port.

Canadian Cold Hits Midwest; South Warmer

By The Associated Press
A blast of cold air from Western Canada sent temperatures tumbling to below zero in the midcontinent today.

The cold air centered over the North-Central states. It was 10 below zero early today in Bemidji, Minn., and -4 in Jamestown, N.D. The icy air moved southward and eastward into Northern Texas and north of the Ohio River, with early morning temperatures below freezing in most areas.

Meanwhile, there was some relief from the frosty weather which has endangered vegetable and citrus crops in Florida and other Southern states. Warmer weather was reported over most of the South after three nights of freezing or near freezing temperatures. Readings were around seasonal levels in most of the Western and Eastern states.

It was dry weather over most of the nation today. Light rain fell in parts of Arizona and light snow hit sections of the Northern and central Rockies and in the Lake Superior region.

Banker's Wife Claims Robbers Stole Gems, Furs

CHICAGO (U)—A bank official's wife reported that three young thugs forced their way into her apartment and robbed her of $13,000 in minks and jewelry.

Mrs. Tania Berman said she was alone in her first floor apartment Wednesday evening. She answered the doorbell, and was seized by one of the men. While he took her wristwatch and two rings, the others rummaged in the closets and took her ranch mink coat and blue mink stole.

Mrs. Berman, wife of Seymour S. Berman, vice president and cashier of the Marine National Bank, is a dramatic recitalist.

A team of at least 15 neurosurgeons, plastic surgeons, anesthesiologists, pediatricians and nurses participated in the operation, which was the ninth of a series performed on the twins since their birth on Sept. 16, 1951. Previous operations were designed to prepare the twins for the main ordeal.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH—Mrs. Violet Ashcraft, 19, tries to comfort her husband, Eugene, 21, as he kneels at her bedside. Their 17-month-old daughter, Sandra Lee, burned to death when an oil stove exploded and burned their Cincinnati home to the ground. They both tried to rescue the child, but were unable to do so because of flames and heavy smoke.

FEUDING BLONDES—Two blonde beauties tumbled at each other over which one is "Miss Indiana." Virginia Ann Johnson, 19 (left) disputes rival Ann Garnier's claim to title since she represents the state in "Miss Universe" contest. Ann Garnier, 20 (right), claims her victory in Indiana "Miss America" competition gives her the title.

Rail Stocks Lead Market

NEW YORK (U)—Railroads provided the bulk of the strength today for a moderate rise in the stock market.

The rails had gains running to between 1 and 2 points at the best, but there were few leaders that got outside the fractional range on the upside. Losses were usually small.

The advance brought out an expanded volume of business that hit a pace better than yesterday's 1,700,000 shares.

Steels did quite well as a group, but most of the buying emphasis was on individual issues.

Higher stocks included Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Shell Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), and U. S. Steel.

Lower were Texas Co., American Cyanamid, General Electric, General Motors and Studebaker.

Curb exchange stocks were generally higher with trading active. Little change was shown by U. S. governments in the over the counter market.

Nautical Yo-Yo Resumes Journey

HONG KONG (U)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, who became a nautical yo-yo for lack of a passport, today started his fourth month of ferry boat rides between Hong Kong and Macau.

He began his 74th round trip and has spent 19 days in drydock. He can't get off at either end of the 40-mile run because immigration authorities refuse to recognize him. O'Brien, 57, says he was born in the U.S. The State department says he is Hungarian.

Hubby Gave Her One-Way Ticket, Wife Complains

A complaint for separate maintenance was filed in the office of the circuit court clerk, Ogle county, by Josephine Quartana, Rochelle, against her husband, Sylvester.

According to Mrs. Quartana's complaint, she charged that he recently bought her a one way ticket to Chicago, gave her $5 and a box of sleeping pills, and told her to take them, that they would kill her and remove her from her troubles.

After that, she added, he packed her clothing and sent it to Mt. Vernon, Ill., where she had then gone.

She tried to return to her home, but he refused admittance, she charged.

She previously left him in July, 1952, not being able to stand his abuse, according to the suit. But she returned on Aug. 11, 1952.

Mrs. Quartana claimed that she worked during the marriage and her earnings were put into a common fund for the purchase of home furnishings, an automobile, and to pay for her husband's bowling.

He moved to Chicago on Sept. 20 and stored all household goods at Monroe Center and in Chicago. In asking for separate maintenance, she requested that the household goods be sold to pay for her medical expenses.

They were married in Chicago in 1939, and have one 10-year-old child for whom she asked custody.

Municipal League Proposes Hike In Sales Tax for Aid to Cities

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Illinois Municipal League Wednesday proposed a penny increase in the two per cent state sales tax, with the proceeds earmarked for cities, towns and towns.

The proposal by A. L. Sargent of Springfield, was assailed by city witnesses who appeared at a hearing of a State Legislative committee on municipal revenue.

In the past, bills to raise the sales tax have received a cool reception in the Legislature.

The sales-tax boost was one of several alternatives suggested by Sargent as a means of curing city financial ills.

Payroll Tax
Sargent included legislation to allow a new 1/2 per cent payroll tax, to be levied on utility bills, doubling the present city garbage collection levy, licensing businesses for revenue, increasing wheel taxes and a new tax for sidewalk maintenance and repair.

Sargent said municipal officials face the problem of finding new revenues or "drastically reducing already inadequate public health and safety services."

Strong opposition, aimed chiefly at Sargent's proposals on the sales tax and licensing businesses, was expressed by spokesmen for the Illinois Taxpayers Federation, the Chicago Civic Federation, the Illinois State chamber of commerce, the Illinois Federation of Retail Merchants Association and the Chicago Retail Merchants Association.

George Mahin, executive secretary of the Taxpayers Federation, said his organization was "unalterably" against any new or increased taxes without prior referendum approval.

Some Solve It
He said some Illinois cities have solved their financial troubles without state help and that many others could do so by better management, improved revenue collections from existing taxes, payroll reductions, businesslike purchasing and "by more careful and businesslike housekeeping generally."

Similar statements came from Harry Williams of Granite City, chairman of the state chamber's state and local taxation committee and Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary of the statewide retailers group.

Questions asked by majority Republicans on the Legislative Commission from downstate districts indicated little support for Sargent's main ideas.

The commission, which is nearing the end of public hearings, will make its report to the 1953 General Assembly convening Jan. 7.

Virginia, Made Famous in Editorial, Perpetuates Myth

By ROBERT FARRINGTON

NEW YORK—Even that famous Santa Claus editorial couldn't save Virginia from childish disillusionment.

You know about the New York Sun reply to a little girl's letter asking if truly there was a Santa Claus.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," it said in a classic attempt to bridge the make-believe and reality. "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exists."

That was more than a half-century ago, but Virginia, now Mrs. Edward Douglas and a grandmother six times over, remembers that all she could understand then was the assurance in the first line.

Gave Reassurance
"It sustained me for two or three years," she said today. "In spite of the editorial, I had a great feeling of disappointment when I found out the truth. I remember I tried to believe even when I knew Santa wasn't real."

Virginia O'Hanlon, aged 8 in 1897, wanted to be sure. So she wrote a letter to The Sun asking, "Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

He lives, and he lives forever," the editorial said. "A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

The editorial received national acclaim and has been reprinted widely over the years.

Mrs. Edwards will tell its story on a television program this Sunday (ABC) 6 p.m. (CST) and on Christmas Eve read the editorial, as she has for seven years, over the CBS radio network.

"I have to make quite an adjustment. I am so anonymous from January to November," she said.

Some Personal Loss
"Most children have no lasting effect from finding there's no Santa. There is a personal loss, you can't help that, but they find they can share in the spirit of giving—the true Christmas spirit."

Mrs. Douglas ought to know. She's been a school teacher for more than 35 years, and principal of public school 31 in lower Manhattan since 1935.

She's going to spend her own Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Temple, in North Chatham, N. Y., near Albany, and her grandchildren ranging from 6 to 13 years.

"They have six children, a boy and five girls," she said. "I'm afraid the three older ones know Santa doesn't really come down the chimney, but the younger ones still believe."

Pays $608 an Acre for Farm

STREATOR—A Streator man has paid what may have been a record price for 40 acres of farm land half a mile east of Streator.

Leo Casey paid $608 an acre for the tract. Edward Greener, also of Streator, paid $365 an acre for 60 acres of the same farm on the opposite side of Highway 18. The land was part of the Charles Iserman estate.

Planes for Egypt

CAIRO (U)—Egypt is planning the production of planes for sale to neighboring Arab states, the undersecretary for aviation affairs announced recently.

The second "training plane" made in Egypt has been highly successful in tests. German experts have been advising the Egyptian government on the manufacture of aircraft.

Raise '53 Steel Quota, Production Goals Hiked

WASHINGTON (U)—Makers of automobiles and other civilian goods raised their production goals for the second quarter of 1953 today, on the basis of government assurance they will have more steel than at any time since the Korean War began.

The Defense Production Administration (DPA) authorized them late Wednesday to use steel up to 70 per cent of their pre-Korean rate. This is about 16 per cent more than for the third quarter of 1952.

Aluminum Offer
Aluminum producers weighed,

List Benefits Available to War Veterans

Veterans of World War II and those in service on or after June 27, 1950, who had dental work done while in the service may seek federal aid to have their teeth treated by their local dentist.

By applying for out-patient dental treatment, a veteran who may be eligible can save time that is usually consumed in checking records. Out-patient treatment for dental work can be performed by the dentist of the veteran's choice, provided he is a "participating" dentist of the Veterans Administration. Most dentists are authorized.

Service officers of the Illinois Veterans commission can advise and assist veterans in making application for out-patient dental treatment and should be consulted as soon as possible.

Those veterans who have National Service life insurance in effect and have not received their 1952 dividend should contact the service officer for assistance in applying for it. In Lee and Ogle counties veterans may see the Illinois Veterans commission service officer at 122 E. First st., Dixon, or on Thursdays at the courthouse in Oregon.

McKay Resigns

SALEM, Ore. (U)—Douglas McKay, who will become secretary of interior in the Eisenhower cabinet next month, resigned as governor of Oregon Wednesday.

He plans to leave for Washington, D. C., shortly after Jan. 1. Paul Patterson, 52, who as president of the State Senate was first in line under Oregon law to succeed McKay, was sworn in as governor.

meanwhile, a conditional government offer for a ceiling price increase of one-half cent a pound on primary aluminum pig and ingot and 4 per cent on fabricated aluminum products.

The DPA allotments of controlled materials for the April-May-June quarter of 1953 made no change in the rate of use of copper and aluminum. The agency said these metals still are scarce. Copper use will continue at 50 per cent of pre-Korean levels and aluminum at 44 per cent.

Acting DPA Chief Ralph Trigg said the steel supply now is looking up, after being hampered by the long steel strike in the summer.

Trigg said the new allotments will meet in full the demands of the Atomic Energy Construction program and defense producers.

More Construction
Trigg said the bigger allotments in the second quarter should permit:

Increased construction of small schools, hospitals, power and transportation facilities and public works; the highest rate of highway construction ever; an output of 9,000 freight cars a month, the highest since materials were rationed; and new housing construction at the rate of one million units a year.

He said steel provided should allow production of 1 1/4 million passenger automobiles and 315,000 trucks. This compares with steel provided to build only 700,000 cars in the first quarter of the new year.

Mt. Morris Bus Needs To Be Outlined for ICC Tomorrow

MT. MORRIS—The type of bus schedule Mt. Morris officials believe the village needs for service to and from Oregon is to be outlined at a hearing Friday morning before the Illinois Commerce Commission in Chicago.

The hearing will be the second held by the commission since it reopened testimony on the American Buslines' petition to abandon its service between Mt. Morris and Oregon. The bus company has declared it is losing money on the service.

The directive to outline the village's bus needs at tomorrow's hearing was given Paul Rees, village attorney, at a conference last week with a representative of the bus company and an examiner of the ICC.

According to Rees, the ICC apparently intends to force the bus company to provide service to the village.

The child was pronounced dead at Mendota Community hospital where he was rushed by his father. He suffered a crushed chest.

company to go through with the bus firm's offer made earlier to provide a trial period of bus service between the two communities to determine if the type of service wanted by Mt. Morris would be supported.

After Mt. Morris officials had indicated acceptance of the bus firm's earlier offer of a trial period the firm declared that cost of such an experiment would be prohibitive and withdrew its offer.

Rees said Friday's hearing may be the last before the ICC makes a decision in the case.

Ogle County Farmers Given Reply on Queries Seeking Information on Feed Supplement

By GEORGE D. FERNES

OREGON—Recently I've been flooded with requests for information on Purdue Supplement A, Clifford Ohlinger, Rochelle, Guy Schullie, Egan, and Morris Newcomer, Mt. Morris, were the latest, and they insisted that more information be released on actual value of this supplement.

First, we must remember that what works for one person may not be desirable for many others; also, the average conditions quite often are not as favorable as some one individual with an extremely efficient set-up may show.

The University of Illinois has been carrying on experiments to determine a dependable way to increase the profits from feeding calves and yearlings that are to be carried through the winter as stockers and grazed and fattened the following summer.

During the past winter protein supplements were scarce, expensive and usually obtainable only as mixed protein-mineral-vitamin supplements. Many of these supplements were patterned after the now familiar Purdue Beef Cattle Supplement A, a supplement originally designed for use with corn cobs.

However, several feed salesmen have made high claims for their brands of Purdue Supplement A for feeding with high-grade roughage like corn silage and choice legume hay, as well as for feeding it to fattening cattle along with a full feed of corn, hay and silage.

These supplements when fed at the recommended level of 3.5 pounds a day would appear to supply more protein, molasses, minerals, and vitamins than are needed for maximum growth by calves or yearling cattle that are fed high-grade roughage, especially corn silage, which is highly palatable and easily digested.

A plausible explanation for the good gains obtained when Purdue Supplement A is fed with corn and legume silages is to be found in the high energy value of the molasses and soybean oil meal.

The university has been attempting to test the validity of this theory. If you were one of those attending the Beef Cattle Feeders day, you could see the results for yourself and ask questions concerning the results. One lot of cattle received 3.5 pounds of Purdue Supplement A, while the other received 1.25 pounds of soybean oil meal and 2 pounds of ground yellow shelled corn.

Both lots were full-fed corn silage and were fed free-choice both barrel salt and a mineral mixture consisting of one part limestone and two parts bone meal.

To briefly summarize the results: Lot 1 fed Purdue Supplement A consumed 169 pounds of supplement for a total feed cost of $15.31 per hundredweight gain. The feed cost per calf per day was 34 cents. Lot 2, fed the original Illinois Supplement consisting of soybean oil meal and yellow shelled corn, consumed 169 pounds of supplement with a total feed cost of $12.74 per hundredweight gain. The feed cost per calf per day was 28 cents.

Could you use that margin of 6 cents on feed cost when you ship your cattle?

Susie, Repertoire Actress, Is Dead

CENTRALIA (AP) — "Susie" is dead—and a breath of the sweet past in show business died with her.

Susie was a vaudeville actress who had been playing Illinois tank towns with the Haverstock stock players for 20 years. She died last week in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Susie was born Lottie Swift in Effingham, Ill., 68 years ago. In real life she was Mrs. Harvey Haverstock, wife of "Toby" in the travelling family repertoire show. Thousands of small town people between Mt. Vernon and Danville knew her because the show has been hitting the same places like Bluford, Ina and Walnut Hill all these years.

Mrs. Zelma Kovach of Bluford was one of her friends. When she heard that Susie was dead, she went to Texas for the funeral.

All Are There
"There are only four other travelling vaudeville shows left in the country," Mrs. Kovach said, "and a representative from each of these was at the funeral."

Last year when the Haverstock Players hit Walnut Hill near Centralia for the 17th consecutive year, a reporter talked to the Haverstocks about their folksy show.

"What do you think of modern show business?" Susie was asked. "We just don't get into that tangled up mess," Susie said. "We have always lived with the people we play to. That's one thing that keeps us going."

Susie started her show business career when she was 8 years old, playing "Little Eva" in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Toby was playing in the band in the same show.

They were married some years later and formed their own stock company in 1911. Their shows have been essentially the same for 41 years.

"Clean Fun"
"Good clean fun for the whole family with no objectionable matter permitted," is the way they bill their shows making three night stands under canvas.

Mrs. Kovach said Susie played her last show before her death the first week in December. Every year she was going to retire but never did.

In Walnut Hill last year she told a reporter, "I retire practically every year in December when we close the show in Texas, but then when the grass comes up again, I come out too."

"What's the use of standing still when you can still move around," Susie said.

Susie sold grape ice and Toby sold the tickets to help make the shows pay. They didn't believe in high prices. Adults paid 38 cents to see the stock play and the after-vaudeville show. Kids got in for 14 cents. But anyone could get in to see the vaudeville show alone for nine cents.

One of the old show people present at Susie's final rites last Friday said to Mrs. Kovach:

"It's as Susie would want—under canvas to the very end."

Toby sent along word with Mrs. Kovach to their friends in Illinois that the show would be around again "when the grass gets green" next summer. It was his beloved Susie's last request that the show should go on.

Must Push Air Advantage, Says President Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman says American military airpower has made "startling technical advances" and should be pushed even more to keep Communists from "plunging the world into war."

Truman's comments were made in an address Wednesday night at the Wright Memorial Dinner of the Aero Club of Washington honoring Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle for his services to aviation. It was attended by 1,400.

Truman presented Doolittle the Wright Memorial Trophy in recognition of his contribution as a civilian to aviation.

Earlier in the day, ceremonies were held at Kitty Hawk, N. C., marking the 49th anniversary of the first airplane flight by Orville and Wilbur Wright.

"THE LAST ADVERTISEMENT WAS PRINTED YESTERDAY"

*What Would the World
Be Like If
It Were TRUE?*

THE last advertisement was printed yesterday. You have cut it out and put it away to show your grandchildren. With it, a way of living as you knew it, has passed forever.

Tonight you will want to see a movie. You pull up to one—saw it last week. At another—but no, you don't like So-and-So's acting. Let's go home. It's too much gas and time to waste on a show. Next month half the theaters will close. Poor attendance.

Tomorrow you will want some groceries. You will go to the nearest grocery store and buy some. Rib roast, perhaps, and lima beans. You won't hear until tomorrow night at the bridge table that the store just next door was having a "Special" on rib roast and lima beans. Pretty soon your husband will wonder why the food bills are so high. The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Next month is Aunt Jane's birthday. Well, if you think I'm going to spend half a day tramping from store to store looking for a gift that I used to find by turning a page—can't afford gifts anyway. We're spending money like water and living like poor folks

Old car's wearing out. Can't afford a new one . . . Chevies and Fords both are $3500 . . . demand's fallen off . . . they've had to up prices to meet plant expenses. Most of the others have closed down . . . don't know how the government will feed all the new unemployed.

Fellow in Milwaukee is inventing color television to sell for $50. No one will hear of it. You will never see it. What IS color television, anyway? The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier—and longer. Advertising is no unmixed blessing. But it has helped give America a standard of living unmatched in any other place and time. That standard of living should persist as long as people have wants to fill and money to spend and eyes to read with.

It WILL persist only so long as the 'presses keep rolling.

Enjoy Pork Hocks and Sauerkraut

Both pork hocks and sauerkraut are flavorful foods, nutritionally important and budgetwise. Combine them and this is what you get—

Pork Hocks with Sauerkraut (4 servings)
Four pork hocks, 2 teaspoons salt (omit if hocks are smoked), 1 large can sauerkraut (3 1/2 cups), 2 medium potatoes, cubed, 1 tart apple, diced, 2 teaspoons caraway seed, 1/2 cup brown sugar.
Cover hocks with water, add salt and simmer, covered, until tender, about 2 hours. Remove meat and skim fat from surface of stock. Pour off all but 1 1/2 cups of stock, add remaining ingredients and mix well. Top with hocks. Cover and cook 30 minutes.

Cut green beans get monotonous if always served the same old way. So how about a few variations on the bean theme?

Bean Variations
1—Brown 1 cup of sliced mushrooms in butter or margarine. Blend with the cooked beans and serve. (Serves 4 to 5).

2—Add 1 tablespoon prepared mustard to 1 cup medium white sauce. Pour hot sauce over beans and serve. (Serves 4 to 5).

Cut Green Beans in Sour Cream (Serves 4-6)
Brown 1 cup sliced mushrooms in 3 tablespoons bacon fat, butter or margarine. Add 1 cup sour cream, salt, pepper and dash of paprika. Add beans and mix thoroughly. Heat through and serve immediately.

Indian Green Beans (Serves 4-5)
Sauté 2 tablespoons chopped onion in 3 tablespoons bacon fat until lightly browned. Add 1/2 cup chili sauce, salt, pepper and dash of paprika. Add cooked beans, mix well in sauce. Heat thoroughly, stirring constantly.

Gumdrops
(Takes about 1 pound gumdrops for cake in all)
Chop enough gumdrops to make 1/2 cup. Empty box of white cake mix into large mixing bowl. Dust 2 tablespoons cake mix over chopped gumdrops; toss well. Mix white cake as directed on package, folding floured gumdrops into batter last.

Turn into cake pans and bake as a two layer cake according to directions on the package. Cool and remove from pan onto wire cake racks. When layers are cool, brush off crumbs.

Place one layer on cake plate, bottom side up. Spread with seven-minute frosting. Top with other layer, right side up, and if necessary fasten with toothpicks. Frost sides, then top of the cake. Use whole old-fashioned candy gumdrops of bright green and red for the top and around the sides. Decorate with a sprig of holly.

Seven-minute Frosting
In top of double boiler, beat together for 1 minute (or until well blended) 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons white corn syrup.

Place over rapidly boiling water. Beat constantly with egg beater for 7 minutes or until frosting is stiff enough to stand in peaks. Remove from heat, add 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring. Beat until thick enough to spread.

Gumdrop Cake Is an Ideal Dessert for Christmas Day

WHITE GUMDROP CAKE is an old-time Christmas treat using modern white cake mix, colorful assorted gumdrops, jiffy frosting.

Do you like old-fashioned treats for Christmas? Then listen to this one—an old-fashioned, glistening white cake with gumdrops in it and on top.

Carolyn Coggins suggested it. She is author of several good cookbooks and party consultant for Fanny Farmer Candies, so her ideas are worthy of a lot of attention.

For her old-time Christmas cake, she uses a modern white cake mix, colorful assorted gumdrops (the nice jelly kind) plus a jiffy seven-minute frosting.

their production and release of 36,000 quail. They reared them on a cooperative basis from chicks provided by the state at an average cost of 8 1/2 cents each.

State Game Season Was A Failure

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Illinois sportsmen, putting a postscript on their 1952 outdoor story, can find a pinch of satisfaction in the handful of disappointments.

Duck hunting didn't live up to prospects. Quail hunting was only fair. Pheasant shooting was labeled good.

The six months drought, nearly interrupting waterfowl sport and almost forestalling upland game pursuit, gets most of the blame for the unaccommodating circumstances.

Blame Weather
Balmy weather kept the boasted big waterfowl flocks in the north overlong and permitted them, once they migrated, to raft up in open water tantalizingly shy of shoreline hunters.

But the season for ducks and geese was 10 days longer than in 1951 and the geese congregation in Southern Illinois was called one of the biggest ever.

Upland gamesters found the brittle and dusty fields noisy underfoot and scentless for their dogs. Relatively short quail bags resulted despite reports of bountiful coveys.

But game managers said the lack of hunting luck meant more plentiful stocks for breeding next year's game population.

Besides the $1,000,000 damage in field and forest fires that destroyed cover and imperiled the start of the upland game season, there was another sour note. Four hunters were fatalities the first day, indicating a high toll of nimrods shot and drowned by the time of the final January count.

Add Mamie to List of Those 'Best-Dressed'

NEW YORK (U.S.)—The New York Dress Institute has increased its list of best dressed women of the world to 12 to make room for two newcomers, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby.

The institute, announcing its annual fashion choices Tuesday night, said the wife of President-elect Eisenhower, and Mrs. Hobby, famed federal security administrator by Eisenhower, were "late starters" but came up fast in the voting to tie for 11th place.

Named at the top of the list for the tenth time was the Duchess of Windsor. The other nine were:

Mrs. William Paley, wife of a radio executive; the Duchess of Kent; Mrs. Byron Foy, wife of an automobile industry executive; Mme. Louis Arpels, wife of a wealthy Paris jeweler; actress Marlene Dietrich, Mrs. William Randolph Hearst Jr., wife of the newspaper executive; Mrs. Winston Guest, wife of a socially prominent polo player; Countess Rodolfo Crespi of Rome, the former Consuelo O'Connor; and Mme. Henri Bonnet, wife of the French ambassador to the U. S.

Chillicothe Town Merger Loses at Polls
CHILLICOTHE, Ill. (U.S.)—Chillicothe's proposal to merge with its smaller neighbor, North Chillicothe, lost at the polls Tuesday.

Residents of Chillicothe, population 2,672, balloted 411 in favor and 155 against merger. North Chillicothe, population 1,745, went 140 in favor and 517 against.

State law covering mergers provides that both communities must approve the proposal. This was believed the first time in Illinois history that a larger community sought merger with a smaller.

The combined town would have been known as North Chillicothe.

'I Was Real Gone,' Says Woman Killer

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Police who charged a blond 16-year-old high school boy with murder quoted him as saying "I was real gone" on marijuana when he fatally stabbed a 37-year-old woman artist.

Donald S. Crosby admitted to officers Tuesday that he stabbed Mrs. Ida C. Mackeown in her fashionable La Jolla home Saturday. The body bore 29 stab wounds. The gangling youth said he had smoked two and a half marijuana cigarettes before seeing her.

Police Chief A. E. Jansen said he changed details of his story several times.

Det. Sgt. Paul Walk said Crosby told him he solicited yard work from Mrs. Mackeown last Saturday, and while inside the widow's house a marijuana cigaret dropped from his pocket. He said she threatened to call police.

"I got scared. I had a knife in my belt for gardening and I pulled it out and started to stab her."

Then he washed his hands, left the house and tossed the knife into a trash can. Later he led police to the weapon.

When William Penn founded Pennsylvania, the death penalty was provided in the laws of the colony only for willful murder, compared with 200 offenses punished by death in England at that time.

'Too Many Agencies in Europe,' Says Sawyer

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says the United States has "too many people and too many agencies" doing too many things in Western Europe, at the cost of waste and confusion.

This was the meat of a hard-swinging attack on U. S. aid administration in Europe which Sawyer, just back from a 10-country study in Europe, inserted into a report Wednesday night to President Truman.

Sawyer said personnel abroad can be cut sharply, and some agencies abolished.

He said he found Europe in better economic shape than he expected, and that "tremendous recovery" has taken place in countries receiving U. S. aid.

Can Have Prosperity

Europe can march on to prosperity, he said, if it does not lose faith in itself.

Sawyer undertook the study at Truman's request. He took with him finance and trade officials from the Treasury and Commerce departments, and two businessmen. All joined him, he said, in the conclusions set forth in the report.

Sawyer did not disagree with the idea of extending the roughly 50 billion dollars in aid Western Europe has received since the war. He said it was "indispensable to the rebuilding of war-damaged economies and to stopping the spread of communism."

But No Handouts

But he took vigorous exception to the administrative structure built up to hand out money, goods and advice. Furthermore, he said the time has come for the U. S. to halt direct aid—with some exceptions, such as military aid and reduced economic help to Italy and Greece—in favor of long-term help in the form of private investment and increased trade.

Most Europeans he talked to, Sawyer indicated, agreed that the time has come for "trade, not aid," the slogan popularized by Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. B. Butler.

"There was an almost unanimous opinion of his mission that we have too many people and too many agencies in Western Europe," Sawyer wrote Truman adding:

"The solution is the abolishment of emergency agencies whose task is either completed or can be absorbed by the regular departments . . . we still have MSA Mutual Security Agency missions in some countries to which we are not now giving and for some time have not given economic aid."

Needs No Study

"This situation does not require another study employing a large staff . . ."

"Nor is the solution the creation of one new overall permanent department whose only assignment would be to give away Uncle Sam's money or handle purely foreign economic affairs."

He recommended that the State department take over "all our foreign political and economic activities," calling in experts from other departments if needed.

Sawyer made these other recommendations:

The United States should lower its tariffs to let in more European trade, but not so far as to damage the economic fibre in the United States.

European countries should stabilize their own economies, attack inflation at home, work toward convertibility of their money and create attractive conditions for U. S. private investment.

Military aid must continue for some time on a substantial scale.

Badman Billy Cook Buried During Night

JOPLIN, Mo.—Badman Billy Cook was buried next to his mother in an eerie, after-dark ceremony Wednesday night.

The body of the 23-year-old slayer of six persons was brought to the Small Peace cemetery at Lone Elm, Kan., along a country route which skirted the city of Joplin.

Only 15 persons watched the 10-minute ceremony. The graveside was lit by flashlights and lanterns. Cook's father, William Cook sr., opened the casket before it was lowered into the ground.

Cook's father, William Cook sr., of the San Quentin Prison last Friday, specifically for the murder of Seattle salesman Robert Dewey. He had killed the five-member Carl Mosser family at Atwood, Ill., a week before.

Original plans called for the burial to be at Comanche, Okla., but the family protested what Cook's attorney called a "Roman holiday" atmosphere. Some 12,000 persons had viewed the body at the Boydston funeral home there.

An investigation into the handling of the original funeral arrangements was promised by Ben Hunter, secretary of the Oklahoma State Embalming Board in Oklahoma City.

Bus Driver on Holiday Winds Up on a Roof

LOS ANGELES—A San Francisco bus driver, in Los Angeles on holiday, wound up in a hospital eventually, but atop a house first, after his car hit a traffic island.

Lennie Johnson was driving about 80 miles an hour Wednesday, officers said, when his auto hit the island, bounced into a house 268 feet away. The car buried itself into the house but Johnson was tossed onto the roof.

Doctors say he'll live. He suffered a broken left leg, broken right arm and broken ribs.

Mincemeat Cakes

SURPRISE DESSERT with Christmas flavor in more ways than one is an individual mincemeat cake with lemon-butter frosting.

Here's a Christmas recipe everyone is going to like—little individual mincemeat pies with lemon-butter frosting. And very easy to make, for packaged mincemeat is used.

This prepared mincemeat is made of dried apples, raisins, currants, citrus peel, brown sugar, salt, spices, cooked beef, white vinegar and cider. All these ingredients are mixed, compressed into 9-ounce blocks and packaged in cartons.

Christmas Mincemeat Cakes (Makes 1 1/2 dozen large cupcakes)

One 9-ounce package of mincemeat, 1/2 cup water, 2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup soft shortening, 1/2 cup milk, 2 eggs, unbeaten, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Break mincemeat into small pieces and place in saucepan. Add water. Place over heat; stir until lumps are thoroughly broken. Boil briskly for one minute. Cool to room temperature.

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt into large mixing bowl. Add shortening, cooled mincemeat and 1/2 cup of the milk. Beat 2 minutes. (If an electric mixer is used, set at medium or slow speed and beat 2 minutes).

Add remaining 1/2 cup milk, eggs and vanilla extract. Beat 1 minute. Fill well-greased cupcake pans 3/4 full. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until cakes are lightly browned and top springs back when lightly pressed with finger. Cool. Frost with lemon-butter frosting.

Lemon-Butter Frosting (Makes 2 cups)

One-quarter pound (1/2 cup) butter, softened, 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar, 4 tablespoons milk or cream, 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract, red or green food coloring.

Cream butter until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar; stir until well blended. Stir in milk or cream, 1 tablespoon at a time until mixture is of good spreading consistency. Beat until light and fluffy. Add lemon extract; blend well.

Reserve 1/2 cup frosting for lettering. Frost sides and top of Christmas Mincemeat cakes. Color reserved frosting. Place frosting in pastry tube. Letter cakes to spell "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year."

Meat Prices Decline; Turkey To Be Higher

By The Associated Press

Retail prices of several popular cuts of meat declined this week in many stores. But eggs were up sharply and most of the tender fresh vegetables worked higher.

The pressure on consumer meat prices reflected heavy livestock marketings and wholesale meat shipments in recent weeks — plus the prospect of lively competition from turkey during the coming holidays. Chicken prices were lower in most places, too.

The price cuts were irregular and by no means unanimous even among the big store chains.

Steak Lower

Sample reductions noted in a spot check of chain stores and major independents, compared with last week: sirloin steak off 10 cents a pound, rib roasts off 6 to 8, chuck roast or steak off as much as 10, leg of lamb off 4 to 6, frying chickens off 4 to 8 cents.

So many turkeys were consumed at Thanksgiving-time that you may have to pay a little more next week than you did in November. It probably won't be more than a couple of cents a pound in most places, the wholesalers say.

Egg prices, after declining irregularly for about a month, bounced back 4 to 10 cents a dozen in most markets compared with last weekend. Dealers said the earlier drop had carried prices abnormally low so that when con-

Butter Eases

Butter eased a couple of cents a pound in some stores, but in many highly-competitive markets retail butter prices were about as low as they could get under the government price-support program.

Production was unseasonably heavy and stocks on hand unusually large.

The price trend in fresh vegetables was upward chiefly because of unfavorable growing weather in the South.

The Agriculture Department stressed table fats, butter, oleo, salad oils and dressing, etc., pork and pork products as most plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

Eisenhower May Face Same Korean Dilemma

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — In the end Gen. Eisenhower may be bedeviled by the same dilemma which has frustrated President Truman: finding a way to end the Korean War.

It might be well for the American nervous system, now raw and twitching because of the seeming endlessness of the fighting, to adjust itself to the idea Eisenhower may not be able to produce a miracle.

No Promises

After all, he promised none. He said he'd go to Korea, which he did, in search of an answer. When he returned, he didn't say he had found one although he would hardly tip off the enemy by saying much publicly, anyway.

Neither Gen. Eisenhower nor Gen. MacArthur has suggested he had any intention of talking with Truman about a solution.

But when Truman clouded up and rained all over both generals he probably dampened any notion either might have had about exchanging ideas with him.

So if Eisenhower and MacArthur came to any conclusion in their get-together yesterday it is something which both men probably will keep to themselves, insofar as Truman is concerned.

Must Wait

If that is a correct guess then the country will have to wait until after Eisenhower's inauguration Jan. 20 for any evidence that he has found any way at all to end the Korean War.

It seems clearly established that Eisenhower will hold firm to this government's present position: The Allies will not hand over to the Communists prisoners who don't want to go back to them.

On this point the armistice talks broke down. For whatever their reason, the Communists refused to budge and the fighting has continued.

And the fighting seems destined to continue unless they yield on the prisoner of war issue or are whipped into yielding on the battlefield by a new and tremendous Allied offensive.

Must Plan

Before such an offensive could begin, Eisenhower would have to plan for it and consider the consequences, both in starting it and if it failed.

If it should fail after the loss of many lives—and a big offensive would cost more lives, for a while anyway, than the present kind of fighting—Eisenhower would be criticized at home.

Try Christmas Fruit, Nut Bars

Christmas always seems a little more like Christmas when you yourself make something to give friends—a wonderful candy or unusual little cakes. So we asked Avanelle Day, a genius at candy recipes, to create two original and exclusive recipes for us. Hope you like them, and Merry Christmas.

Fruit and Nut Bars
(Yield: 48 bars)

One-half cup butter or margarine, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg or mace, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses, 1 1/2 cup sifted enriched flour, 2 eggs, unbeaten; 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 2 cups mixed diced fruit.

Heat oven to 325 degrees F. (moderately slow). Cream together butter or margarine, soda, salt and spices; add sugar and cream until fluffy. Blend in molasses. Stir in 1/2 cup of the flour. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Gradually add the remaining flour.

Spread batter in a greased, parchment-lined 12x8x2-inch pan. Bake 50 minutes or until done. Turn out on wire rack to cool; remove paper. Cut into bars.

Ginger Fudge
(Yield: 1 1/2 pounds)

Three cups sugar, 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup light cream or undiluted evaporated milk, 1/2 cup chopped crystallized ginger.

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan; mix well. Cook to 242 degrees F. or until syrup forms a soft ball when dropped in very cold water. Stir frequently. Remove from heat.

Cool to 110 degrees F. or until bottom of pan can rest comfortably in the palm of the hand. Beat until creamy and the mixture loses its shine. Pour into a buttered 9-inch square pan. Cut into squares.

One-and-a-half pounds homemade ginger fudge costs 72 cents —1 1/2 pounds bought ginger fudge cost $1.85.

Until the middle of the 19th Century when the reaping machine was made practical, all grain was cut with scythes or sickles.

Out Our Way

Uncle Bulgy, I know you like to make people happy at Christmas! Will you pass the word what I'd like?—also I've got nine things there on my list—will you help me cut it down?—is a hockey goalie's outfit too much to ask?

HAK-KAFF! MY WORD, LEANDER! THESE ARTICLES SEEM TO BE A BIT ON THE EXPENSIVE SIDE!—WHEN I WAS A TADPOLE YOUR AGE I WAS IMMENSELY TICKLED TO GET A CAP WITH EARFLAPS AND A BRIGHT-COLORED LOLLIPOP!

WE HAS A LONG LIST OF HIS OWN, LEANDER.

MODERN MY EYE! I HAD TO LIVE IN SUCH PLACES MOST OF MY KID DAYS—AND IN SHOPS WHERE I WORKED! NOW THAT I CAN AFFORD A HOUSE, I DON'T WANT ONE WITH TH' PLUMBIN' EXPOSED!

WELL, TH' PLUMBIN' WAS WHAT HELD UP TH' SECOND FLOOR OF SOME OLD ONES, BUT THESE PIPES DON'T HAVE MUCH TO HOLD UP!

SUPERSONIC AWARD—John Stack, above, becomes a two-time Collier Trophy winner, with announcement by the National Aeronautics Association that he and his associates have been given the coveted award for developing a transonic wind tunnel. The NAA states that the development may have given America a two-year lead over Russia in perfecting supersonic planes. The 44-year-old government scientist shared in the award in 1949, for helping to develop the Bell X-1, first piloted craft to pierce the sonic barrier.
